Sharing Christmas Warmth

The Mary Beth Nolan Edition

Growing up as kids, our parents would read The Night Before Christmas to us, as a family tradition. Now, every Christmas Eve the family gets together to watch A Christmas Story. One Christmas, my brother (and Executive Vice President) Christopher Chase thought it would be funny to give me a replica of the Leg Lamp, complete with the FRAGILE box and all. Every Christmas, I'm now required to put that lamp in my front window. So, the next year, I returned the favor by getting him the pink bunny suit which he is now required to wear while handing out gifts every Christmas Eve.
